In criticising the demonstration of rebel flags and rebel sentiments at Winchester, Va., on the occasion of decorating the graves of the rebel dead, the Cumberland (Md. News says very tritely :

We have always argued that the South car not afford to keep alive the issues which led to the war. How many demonstrations like that at Winchester will it take to send the country headlong into Republicanism?

Now another of the Democratic campaign lies coined for general circulation is stepped on and crushed in this wise:

General lows Beatty, of Columbus, Ohio, a Re-publican Stalwart, bitterly opposes the election of Hon, Citables Fostes, the Republican nominee for Governor.—Bullimore Sen.

This is not true. General Beatty will setively support the Republican ticket in the campaign.—Claciment Daily Times. THE drivel of Iowa ill-feeling that is doled out through the columns of a Bourbon journal in this city against Secretary mischief to its legitimate source-inside the Republican party.

PROCTOR KNOTT yesterday fired off his blunderbuss, aimed at the Presidential vetoes. It was heavily charged with questionable ammunition, and if any one is hurt by the discharge it will be the gunner himself. It is by far of too short a range to reach the positions taken by the President in his vetoes. Mr. KNOTT will amuse the among sensible men to his absurd dogmas and propositions.

WE do not say that General GRANT desires to be, or will be, the Republican standard-hearer in 1880, for that is a question are ready to flee from the wrath to come, if which the people at the proper time and in their own way will decide with an emphasis not to be mistaken, so that point can safely be left there for the present; but this threshold of the business that called Conmuch we do say, without the fear of just whom the Democrats dread so intensely as they do the name of GRANT, and for this reason they have set the pump of Cresarism at work vigilantly.

THE charge that Colonel LEN HARRIS was drunk when he put Tom Ewing in nomination at the late Ohio Democratic Convention appears to have disturbed the equanimity of the Democratic press in a very serious manner. All the Bourbon scribblers in the country are rushing to his defense with more or less direct denials of the charge. They are now digesting a dose of their own medicine, such as they administered to Senater CHANDLER on the occasion of his late JEFF DAVIS speech. But it is a noticeable fact that they one and all admit that Colonel Harms voice on the letter of the letter could not be heard throughout the conven- the country and going home. THE Democratic victory, of which the "steam whistle" at the capital blows so stentoriously, does not wear such reseate tints elsewhere, even to Democratic eyes, The Charleston News, which has more sense than the average Bourbou "steam whistle," pays its respects to the majority in Congress

In the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections had the slightest conception of the disgust with which its current proceedings regarding the Louisiana Senatorial contest are received by the public it would banish that question into utter oblivion. A few of the newspapers of the country feel impelled by force of circumstances to print brief extracts of the record in this case as it is made up day by day, but in our opinion the average newspaper reader turns away from these reports of chronic perjusy with a feeling of contempt and detestation for those who are responsible for them. Mr. Sporrord has made nothing thus far in this investigation, unless he thinks it is creditable to be blazoned before the world as a man who founds his claim for a seat in the Senate upon the testimony of procured witnesses and self-confessed perjurers. He cannot expect in this way to upset a welldefined and widely-acknowledged res adjudicata case.

There are now symptoms of returning samity, good sense, and good faith in the fact that it has put aside some of its party nonsense and brought forward one of the appropriation bills comparatively free from cuormities and deformities, and more in accord with the traditions of American legislation. There would have been no difficulty in passing such measures two months ago. The Republicans would not have opposed, acither would the President treat because they can't help it. The Democrats have been put on the defensive from the first, and the reason is that in the Northern mind they were on probation, worthy to be supported as long as they confined themselves to retrenchment and the reform of abuses in office, but to be suppressed at once if they attempted any legislation repugnant to what is

The Democratic Death-Warrant.

[Indianapolis News (Ind.)]

The Democrats in Congress are acting like the herd of swine the evil spirits entered. They are rushing headleng to their destruction. If their last revised and improved programme as amounteed isn't their political death-warrant, it will be from no lack of stupidity on the part of its projectors. The President should veto this folly in Italies. There is no right in this Government for any of its branches to stop the progress of the Government. Congress is it obliged to perform its duty whether wants to or not. [Indianapolis News (Ind.)]

Twice in two years have the Northern Democrats proved not only their lack of leadership, but of patriotism. The south controls in the caucus in each branch of Congress, and is therefore responsibility there can be mo escape; yet the Northern blunderers and malignants in the party are permitted to dictate its policy in all matters affecting questions growing out of the war. Is it not time for the Southern members to understand that power should excompany responsibility, and that, being responsible for results, they should control in shaping them? Bo they require any additional evidence of the utter incapacity of the Northern managers than is furnished in the history of 1877 and 1879.
